United Way Celebrations Honor SRNS for Exceptional Community Impact

AIKEN, S.C. – (April 23, 2026) – The United Way of Aiken County and United Way of the CSRA (Central Savannah River Area) recently brought the community together with two celebration events in Aiken, South Carolina, and Augusta, Georgia, honoring the organizations and individuals whose leadership and generosity continue to advance their missions during their 2025 fundraising campaigns. Savannah River Nuclear Solutions (SRNS) stood out among this year’s honorees, earning several awards for its strong and ongoing commitment to the CSRA.

SRNS employees were honored for their significant contributions to the 2025 United Way Campaign. Through a strong employee-driven effort, the campaign raised $761,811, exceeding its $650,000 goal by 17 percent.

“Each year, our employees remind us what compassion in action truly looks like. Their dedication to the United Way campaign reflects a deep commitment to lifting up our neighbors and strengthening our community,” said Staci Peters, SRNS Senior Vice President of Business Services and Executive Sponsor of the UW campaign. “I am incredibly proud of the heart they bring to this effort and the lasting difference their generosity makes. I am honored to say that, through a strong employee-driven effort, the 2025 SRNS United Way campaign raised $761,811, exceeding its $650,000 goal by 17 percent.”

"When organizations like SRNS step forward with such generosity and heart, our entire community moves forward," said Brittany Burnett, President and CEO of United Way of the CSRA. "Their support not only fuels critical services but also inspires others to join in, creating a ripple effect of kindness and connection throughout the CSRA."

Every year, the United Way campaign creates lasting impact by supporting agencies that provide essential services across the CSRA and beyond. Through this broad network, the campaign helps build stronger, more resilient communities and ensures that families have access to the resources they need for long term stability and success.
