Spirit of Alliance Award Highlights SRNS Role in Georgia Minority Business

AIKEN, S.C. December 16, 2020 – Savannah River Nuclear Solutions recently received The George Lottier Rising Star Award during the Georgia Minority Supplier Development Council (GMSDC) 2020 Spirit of Alliance Awards ceremony.

Through the Spirit of Alliance Awards, the GMSDC honors individuals, small businesses, corporate and government entities for their contributions to supplier diversity and minority business development in the state. The nominees and winners represent the best and brightest business minds, who are ongoing advocates of progressive minority supplier development in Georgia.

“The George Lottier Rising Star Award is given to the company with the most promising supplier development program. A program that is relatively new and rapidly growing,” said Alex Agyemang, SRNS Small Business Liaison Officer. “When compared to larger established companies such as Coca-Cola, UPS, Delta and Lockheed-Martin, we have seen tremendous results.”

Agyemang added that receiving this award from the GMSDC was particularly meaningful, considering that this organization had been named the National Minority Supplier Development Council’s Council of the Year in 2019.

“To have received this recognition from the GMSDC, is extremely gratifying. It says we are executing our vision well, and we are on track to truly make an impact in the supplier diversity community. Achieving this award speaks volumes,” he said.

Agyemang is grateful for the ongoing support of the SRNS executive team and the buyers who place the orders. Their support made it possible for SRNS to win multiple awards over the past three years.

“Really, more than anything else, this award and the recognition it provides, demonstrates how committed we are to our suppliers and ensuring their success as we deliver Site missions,” said Agyemang. “The best suppliers of products and services are the most sought after, and for good reason. Companies now compete on the strength of their supply chains and a strong supplier network has truly become a competitive advantage. We want to position SRNS to be the company of choice for the best suppliers, and I believe we’re consistently developing that level of recognition and reputation.

“Our procurement professionals get to leverage this competitive advantage every time they execute a purchase order or subcontract” he added.

The GMSDC is the state of Georgia’s leading advocacy organization for small business development and supplier diversity. Their primary focus is to certify Minority Business Enterprise firms, help them prepare to engage global supply chains and then facilitate partnerships with corporations and governments in need of their goods and services.
